Hard copy or digital files...

become manageable data and images

Imaging and Electronic Discovery Services

IT'S NOT MAGIC...
IT JUST LOOKS LIKE THAT

Pro Copy can make the sometimes challenging aspect of turning images and electronic data into easily interpreted, case-winning data. Let us work with you to discover the critical information now available via e-discovery to better serve your practice and clients.

Utilizing software originally designed by our staff for in-house use and now distributed to law firms, legal service bureaus and corporate legal departments around the world, we can provide images and data compatible with any database or document management package you choose. In fact, we can provide images and data you can view and search without the need for any additional software or expense using the Storm Viewer from Image Capture Engineering (ICE), our sister company.

There is no service bureau more qualified anywhere in the world to answer your demands for imaging or electronic discovery services. And that's not just idle talk—we really are the birthplace for ICE, now the most respected electronic litigation software support provider in the business. We still work hand-in-hand, under the same roof, every day with the developers, support staff and owners of both Pro Copy and ICE. That's a powerful combination no one else can offer.
